

FRANCINE IN ONEDERLAND

nce upon a time, there was a curious little girl named Francine. One bright afternoon, she spotted a white rabbit hurrying by, and without a second thought, she followed it down a mysterious rabbit hole. Down, down she tumbled, until she landed in a place where teacups twirl, clocks tick backwards, and books dance.

She then found herself in a place unlike any other, The Onederland. There, she met the Queen of Hearts, who gave her a special quest- to find her way back home by fulfilling a journey of faith.

"Hear ye, hear ye! The child is summoned to be baptized by the High Being at Baliwag Church on June 16, 2026 at precisely 1 PM! She shall be guided by those dressed in white – the godparents of the Land of Oneder! And let it be known: only the godparents are permitted within the sacred hall! No other soul shall be seen inside the church unless they sit upon the outer benches... or it's off with their heads!" The Queen declared.

No sooner is the challenge complete than the Mad Hatter read a decree from the White Queen. He calls for everyone to tumble over to The Woodberry Resort, where the clock shall strike for tea at 2:30 PM to celebrate her coming to Onederland. But to step through the door, one must be dressed in any color except blue, white, or black.

And so, the tale of Francine in Wonderland unfolds, and you, dear reader, is invited to join her in a double celebration of baptism and birthday.

But before the clock ticks away, the Mad Hatter kindly requests that all dear guests confirm their place at the tea table. Please follow the White Rabbit and answer the RSVP form through clicking the mailbox below- so every teacup is perfectly set and every chair has its guest.
